

Video transcript

Adam Matthew interactive tools

Each of our resources has a selection of interactive tools. These differ between resources, but let's take a look at three.

Many of our resources have an interactive chronology. The categories along the side will help you explore key events and contexts during the period of your research. You can use the scroll bar across the top to help refine the date period.

First World War

The First World War features interactive maps to show key events, movement and change in a visual, interactive mode. You can use the timeline to select a key location or event, and here you can use the next and previous buttons to track events as they unfold.

Global Commodities.

Global Commodities features the energy data visualisation which allows researchers to track historic energy prices across time. Using the scroll bar here, you can switch energies and select countries.

Popular Culture.

Some resources have a wealth of video sources to watch as well. Here is the video feature in Popular Culture, you can see the metadata here and can view the video in a high-definition player.